SALEM KIWANIS KLIPPINGS

THE NEWSLETTER OF THE SALEM KIWANIS CLUB
Serving the greater Salem Community since 1921

Chuck Bennett is working hard to be the next mayor of Salem. He is not doing it for the money, the job pays no salary, he's doing it for the free sandwiches he gets when he addresses civic groups like our Kiwanis club. But seriously, Mr. Bennett has been a member of the Salem city council for nine years and has served on a multitude of city and state boards and commissions. He was a member of the Oregon House of Representatives. His career in Salem started as a city hall reporter with the old Capitol Journal newspaper.

He thinks Salem's downtown "is great," and the city is moving in the right direction. The new walking bridge will open up miles of public access to the beautiful park land of Minto-Brown Island Park. He does feel that some of the one-way streets, such as State, in downtown should be made into two-way streets.

Carole Smith is advocating for more citizen involvement in the decisions the city makes about the quality of life in Salem, especially in downtown. She and her husband have been involved in the restoration of many old buildings in downtown for many years. She would like to see a renovation of some of the pedestrian access in some areas of downtown. Ms. Smith also strongly believes that city officials should strive for more citizen participation in the major decisions that affect the people of Salem. She would like to institute a program of "coffee with the mayor" where folks could meet and talk about issues in an informal manner.

She thinks citizens should get on review boards and committees that have an impact on their quality of life here in downtown Salem and beyond.
