THE NEWSLETTER OF THE SALEM KIWANIS CLUB

Serving the greater Salem Community for over 92 years

Sean Downey was at the podium to conduct the meeting today as President Norm Frink was away on vacation.

Jim Krauth brought his sister Bessie today and she is planning to join the club.

Steve Sanchez reported on a record Snack Shack weekend with a net profit of $650!

Richard Chesbrough reported on a very successful KDCCP raffle sales at the State Fair. There was a total of $25,708 in ticket sales for the run of the fair with a record Labor Day Sales of $4,900. The winner, who was notified on the phone by Barbara Chesbrough, was a former Kiwanian from Gresham OR.

today was Bill Hansen. Bill's father was a

PNW Kiwanis Governor so it was kind of a given that Bill would join Kiwanis. He has been a Kiwanian since 1965. Bill was born in Portland Oregon and after living in the small town of Carver Oregon, the family moved to Salem. Bill talked about the early days of the food booth at Steam-Up. In 1973 the North Salem Club ran the booth with no running water and no exhaust fan.

Barbara Chesbrough provided the program today. It was a dual program on the SIGN

(Surgical Implant Generation Network) program and on the Kiwanis membership drive.

Kiwanis SIGN provides free surgical implants for use by surgeons to heal otherwise untreatable injuries to children, family caregivers and primary wage earners. Most extreme trauma injuries occur in the developing countries, much of it the result of traffic accidents on roads where pedestrians and cyclists share space with trucks, buses, cars and animals. Kiwanis Club and Personal donations of $100 pay the cost of providing one life-changing — and family-saving — surgery that would not otherwise be available to the great majority of people in developing countries.

Sunday Profile

On Sunday, August 31, the Statesman Journal had a nice multi-page feature article on President Norm Frink and on the book donation program he has spearheaded for the past four years.

The above photo was sent to me with this information from Eric Howard:

Bob,
This is Sunday morning at the State Fair at the KDCCP ticket booth.

I was wearing my Kiwanis hat because that morning the fantastic story came out about President Norm's book project. I was hoping someone would stop by because they had read the article, but nobody did.

Mother, daughter date on the Willamette Queen

There is a direct correlation between a 5-year-old's excitement level and speed of conversation. Let's just say they both were off the charts as we hurried recently to docked Willamette Queen: "Oh, it's a ramp to get down, not steps. I've never seen it up close before. It's bigger than I thought. It's going to look really big when we get on."

She tapered off to shy silence as jazzy strains transported us to New Orleans. They harkened back to a time when boats like Salem's white sternwheeler moved up and down rivers, a time when life moved at a different pace.

To my daughter, "a long time ago" meant a few years back when her oldest sister rode the Willamette Queen. "She was about my age, and she got to drive it," she'd mentioned multiple times. "Do you think they'll let me drive it?" We'd barely stepped on the boat when she got her answer in the form of instruction: "Don't forget to go to the pilot house and steer the boat."

The engines started rumbling below as we made our way upstairs. "It looks like a restaurant," my daughter observed.

"Or a wedding venue," I added for my own hearing.

Her eyes and steps were aimed at the back of the boat where kids, parents, and grandparents were peering down at the large, red paddles.

My daughter made a spot where there wasn't one and joined the wheel watchers. We could feel the boat starting to move and decided to watch from the front. The sun sparkled on the water. Riverfront Park looked picturesque. A heron stooped by.

For a few minutes, my daughter contentedly watched over the railing, commenting on every-
