DAF is Your Pathway To Recovery

Our program on April 27th was presented by Sarah Ferrer and Eddie Hoggins representing the Drug Abuse Foundation of Palm Beach County (DAF). DAF's vision is to serve as a united team, working together to deliver the most qualitative, cost-effective and responsive services possible; always choosing to be challenged by faith rather than driven by fear; in the pursuit of creating environments where people find what they need to change their lives. They are Celebrating 48 years of service.

Located in Delray Beach, DAF provides a wide range of services. One or more of their programs are designed to meet each client's need.

Every individual that seeks treatment from the DAF receives an assessment to determine their level of treatment.

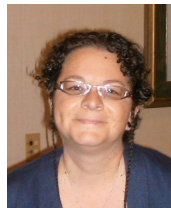

Sarah Ferrer & Eddie Hoggins

The DAF provides a wide array of services that are organized into five service groups: Prevention Service Group, Intervention Service Group, Medical Services Group, Community Based Treatment Service Group and Criminal Justice Service Group. All programs are licensed by the Florida Department of Children and Families. For more information go to www.dafpbc.org.

Camelot Brings Families Together

Jennifer Martin

Our program on April 20th was presented by Jennifer Martin, the Foster Home Recruitment and Licensing Specialist for Camelot Community Care.

Camelot is a leading provider of child welfare and foster care services. The goal of their child welfare programs is to achieve permanency for the children they serve through reunification with their biological family, adoption, or preparation for adulthood. Each day, Camelot provides services to over 5,000 children and families.

Children enter the foster care system through no fault of their own. They may have experienced physical abuse, sexual abuse, and/or neglect. They may also be in foster care because their parents lack the parenting skills necessary to nurture and discipline them properly.

All kinds of people are foster parents. They care about kids, are committed to "family", and want to help others through a rough time. Camelot provides ongoing services to their foster parents which includes 24 hour on-call support, financial assistance, and free trainings. For more information go to www.camelotcommunitycare.org.

Medical Marijuana Issue on 2016 Ballot

Raymer Maguire

Our program on April 13th was presented by Raymer Maguire, speaking about the proposed medical marijuana constitutional amendment in the upcoming 2016 election. Representing "United For Care", Maguire explained that Politicians have made it a crime for doctors to recommend medical marijuana to their patients, forcing the people of Florida to put it on the ballot as an amendment. This is NOT a legalization of recreational marijuana and is ONLY for people who have debilitating diseases and conditions.

Studies show that many patients suffering with HIV/AIDS, glaucoma, cancer and chemotherapy, multiple sclerosis, epilepsy, and other debilitating illnesses find that marijuana provides relief from their symptoms.

Recent polling shows that over 70% of Floridians support the legalization of Medical Marijuana in our state, and is now allowed in 23 states and the District of Columbia.

For more information and to read the ballot language ahead of voting, go to www.unitedforcare.org.

I got in a fight one time with a really big guy, and he said, "I'm going to mop the floor with your face." I said, "You'll be sorry." He said, "Oh, yeah? Why?" I said, "Well, you won't be able to get into the corners very well."

Blondes..... Gotta Love'Em

A guy took his blonde girl friend to her first football game. They had great seats right behind their team's bench... After the game, he asked her how she liked the experience.

"Oh, I really liked it," she replied, "especially the tight pants and all the big muscles, but I just couldn't understand why they were killing each other over 25 cents."

Dumbfounded, her date asked, "What do you mean?"

"Well I saw them flip a coin and one team got it and then for the rest of the game, all they kept screaming was: 'Get the quarterback! Get the quarterback!'"

Hel-LLLO! It's only 25 cents!

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT

Fraud in Florida

From Jeff Atwater, Florida CFO

Dear Fellow Floridians:

As your Chief Financial Officer, I work each day to aggressively fight the fraud that drives up the cost of living in Florida. I often share with you stories of staged car accidents, workers' compensation scams, and floods that were intentionally created in order to collect insurance benefits, but it's important to know that fraud comes in many forms.

For example, did you know that most instances of arson are committed so the arsonist can later file an insurance claim on the property they've intentionally destroyed? Many don't think of arson as a financial crime, but it most certainly is.

The schemes don't stop there. We also see cases where individuals defraud public benefits systems that are designed to temporarily support Florida families during their greatest times of need.

Just this week, I joined with the Florida Department of Children and Families, the Orange County Sheriff's Office and the Ninth Circuit State Attorney Jeffrey L. Ashton to announce arrests related to a food stamp fraud case in Orlando.

Using the stolen identities of more than 600 people, the two defendants completed hundreds of online applications for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program benefits -- more commonly known as food stamps. To conceal their efforts from the watchful eyes of program administrators, this duo had their fraudulent cards mailed to a network of addresses -- addresses belonging to vacant homes, businesses and even churches.

In total, Eurick Fenton and Quinteria Williams collected nearly $200,000 in fraudulent benefits -- benefits from public programs that all of our tax dollars go to support. Stop and think for a moment about how much is taken from each of your paychecks for taxes and you'll be just as angry about this as I am.

Thanks to the dedicated work of our Divisions of Public Assistance Fraud and Insurance Fraud and our partners in the Florida Department of Children and Families, thousands more in benefits were stopped before they could be sent to this pair of criminals.

This week, their web of lies unraveled. With their arrests, a message was sent: we will not tolerate acts of fraud in Florida. To help carry this message forward, our message to all Floridians is simple: if you see something, say something. If you suspect that fraud is happening around you, please give us a call at 1-800-378-0445. You can choose to remain anonymous and if the information you provide to us leads directly to a conviction, you may even be eligible for a cash reward.

Help us continue to work toward a fraud-free Florida.

8 Steps to Mindful Eating

This ancient practice can transform the way you think about food and set the stage for a lifetime of healthy eating.

Like most of us, you've probably eaten something in the past few hours. And, like many of us, you may not be able to recall everything you ate, let alone the sensation of eating it. Because we're working, driving, reading, watching television, or fiddling with an electronic device, we're not fully aware of what we're eating.

By truly paying attention to the food you eat, you may indulge in foods like a cheeseburger and fries less often. In essence, mindful eating means being fully attentive to your food—as you buy, prepare, serve, and consume it. In the book Savor: Mindful Eating, Mindful Life, Dr. Lillian Cheung and her co-author, Buddhist spiritual leader Thich Nhat Hanh, suggest several practices that can help you get there, including those listed below.

1. Begin with your shopping list. Consider the health value of every item you add to your list and stick to it to avoid impulse buying when you're shopping. Fill most of your cart in the produce section and avoid the center aisles—which are heavy with processed foods—and the chips and candy at the check-out counter.
2. Come to the table with an appetite—but not when ravenously hungry. If you skip meals, you may be so eager to get anything in your stomach that your first priority is filling the void instead of enjoying your food.
3. Start with a small portion. It may be helpful to limit the size of your plate to nine inches or less.
4. Appreciate your food. Pause for a minute or two before you begin eating to contemplate everything and everyone it took to bring the meal to your table. Silently express your gratitude for the opportunity to enjoy delicious food and the companions you're enjoying it with.
5. Bring all your senses to the meal. When you're cooking, serving, and eating your food, be attentive to color, texture, aroma, and even the sounds different foods make as you prepare them. As you chew your food, try identifying all the ingredients, especially seasonings.
6. Take small bites. It's easier to taste food completely when your mouth isn't full. Put down your utensil between bites.
7. Chew thoroughly. Chew well until you can taste the essence of the food. (You may have to chew each mouthful 20 to 40 times, depending on the food.) You may be surprised at all the flavors that are released.
8. Eat slowly. If you follow the advice above, you won't bolt your food down. Devote at least five minutes to mindful eating before you chat with your tablemates.

"Old" is When.....

... you have sex on the first date because there might not be a second. Ever.

You know you are old when "Getting any?" means sleep.

You know you are old when the only thing that gets hard is arteries.

You know you are old when you can live without sex, but not your glasses.

You know you are old when you speed because you don't want to forget where you're going.

You know you are old when you've been diagnosed with CRS: Can't remember shit.

Delray Affair this year was OUTSTANDING! We raised over $1,900 for our charities.

Here's a note from Carlene Laseter, Chairperson of our Delray Affair Fund-Raiser: "Well, the Delray Affair is over for another year!!!!"

At this time I want to extend a big THANK YOU for a great group of volunteers. You are what makes our Kiwanis club strong.

From picking up the products, setting up the booth, working the shifts, and taking it down, you gave up about 70 hours to make this another successful year. It could not happen without you. Many thanks, Carlene"

And Susan & Ben Ruby added: "Carlene .. Thank you for all the arranging and making sure it happened again.. You ate the best!" Yes, that's a typo corrected by Ben & Carol Bassford: "Are the best ☺". Yes Carlene, You ARE THE BEST! Here are some pics from the event:

Here Comes "Little Johnny"

At school, Little Johnny was told by a classmate that most adults are hiding at least one dark secret, and that this makes it very easy to blackmail them by saying, "I know the whole truth."

Little Johnny decides to go home and try it out. He goes home, and as he is greeted by his mother. He says, "I know the whole truth." His mother quickly hands him $20 and says, "Just don't tell your father."

Quite pleased, the boy waits for his father to get home from work, and greets him with, "I know the whole truth." The father promptly hands him $40 and says, "Please don't say a word to your mother."

Very pleased, the boy is on his way to school the next day when he sees the mailman at his front door. The boy greets him by saying, "I know the whole truth."

The mailman immediately drops the mail, opens his arms, and says, "Then come give your daddy a great big hug!"

Governor's Message

by Celia Earle, Florida Kiwanis Governor

My Dear Kiwanians,

Can you imagine that we have completed six months of the Kiwanis year already? Wow! It has been wonderful and we have accomplished a lot. I am thrilled to see the excitement that us Florida District Kiwanians are having with moving into the next century. We continue to make such an indelible mark in our communities and the world. We demonstrate through our service that we completely understand that we are blessed to be a blessing. We are on this earth to help others and not just for self. This is within each and every one of us, which is why we need to spread the good news and bring others into the Kiwanis Family because more hands mean more service. Be positive and have passion about serving because when others see that passion within you, they will want it also. Let us grow this District as we know that we can! We continue to be the best kept secret and that has got to stop.

The Formula is an excellent sound program that has been developed to teach us the way to grow our District. There are specific Formula members throughout the District, but I consider each and every Kiwanian in the District to be a member of the Formula Team. Every day that we are out there providing service, we are being ambassadors. Another point that we must address with potential members is that no other organization performs outstanding service, plus develops exceptional student leaders from Elementary (K-Kids) through University/College (CKI) levels and also values the importance of adults with disabilities through Aktion Club. We also understand that the greatest development of a child is from prenatal through age five (Young Children: Priority One) and unless these children have good, nurturing environments, their brains will not develop as they should, which will significantly affect their future.

Thank you for meeting this year's goals thus far by: (1) taking up the challenge of reciting the Six Objects of Kiwanis at all of your meetings, (2) performing impactful service, (3) embracing Young Children: Priority One and our Service Leadership Programs, (4) The Formula, and (5) fulfilling and increasing your commitments to the Eliminate Project. Thank you for what you are doing for Christmas in July for homeless children. Thank you also for your various postings on Passion Place, so that we can be lifting each other up as a family should do.

From April 28th to May 1st, Florida Key Club will hold its District Education and Leadership Conference (DCON). I am excited about that upcoming conference as these student servant leaders are amazing. For any Kiwanian who has never attended one of their conferences, I promise you that you will leave inspired and feel confident that our future is bright because of these leaders.

Again, I thank you for all that you are doing for others and for our District. Let us continue to have a "Passion for People! Passion for Service!"

Peace and Love,
Celia D. A. Earle, Ph.D.
Governor, 2015 - 2016
