KIWANIS MOMENTS

Mike Terry

Kiwanis Club of Jonquil City
Kiwanis

Most cities have wonderful community service organizations; Optimists, Rotary, Lion's Club, Moose, and numerous church and neighborhood groups. But in my home town, the one I am most familiar with is Kiwanis. I have been an active member of the Jonquil City Kiwanis Club for more than 24 years and I have held many positions in the club, including president, fund raising chair, and chair of the board of directors, and more. I could write at length about all the local worthwhile projects that my club has been involved in and the hundreds of people we have helped, but that's not what is on my mind at the moment.

As the coronavirus has held us captive for so many months, I have busied myself working alone in my garden and completing lots of projects, and I often found myself resting on one of my garden benches and remembering...just remembering. As I look out over the tender new plant growth that has been encouraged by the warm spring sunshine, I recall several special Kiwanis moments that were meaningful to me, and I thought I'd record them here.

Kiwanis works almost exclusively with children. As you might imagine, that means we interface with lots of disadvantaged children. You know the ones; single parent kids, poor kids, needy kids, hungry kids, beautiful kids. Most of the work we do is through the local schools. Our reputation is above reproach, our success rate is high, and our club is in great demand. We have learned that second, third, and fourth graders are the easiest to impact in a positive way. So, in every story here, the children I describe are elementary school age.

MY FRIEND

One of the most rewarding things our Kiwanis Club does is teach reading. A school will select children that are reading well below grade level and assign individual children to one of our members. Once or twice per week, the child is sent to the media center (library) where the child reads to the Kiwanian, not the other way around. Gentle correction is applied. Praise is given for the smallest accomplishments, and in time, the child invariably improves their reading skills. But something else happens here as well. The Kiwanian and child develop a bond, a real friendship. For many of the children, this becomes the best part of each school week, and they really look forward to it. One year the child assigned to me was a very shy diminutive black boy. His teacher told me he struggled to read at all, and she could not understand how he even made it to the third grade. "Just

David Simmons 2024-25 Governor of the Georgia District

C: (229) 947-2277
E: cordele.kiwanis377@gmail.com
Club: Cordele

Welcome to May. In the Kiwanis world, May is membership month. In reality, every month is membership month. The key to membership growth within our clubs is to invite prospective members. Each of us has to be intentional regarding inviting prospective members to be a part of Kiwanis. We can invite those people to our club meetings, to our service projects, or both. Either way, the most important aspect is to INVITE. If you need any assistance with membership, I encourage you to reach out to our membership team. They are a dedicated group of Kiwanians who are more than willing to assist you and your clubs. I don't mention membership to just try and get more numbers, the important aspect to remember is that the more members we have the more service we can provide in our communities. Speaking of service, is your club aware of our District Foundation's matching grant program? We are blessed to have a District Foundation that is ready and willing to assist clubs with their projects. The matching grant program allows clubs to submit a request for matching funds up to $5,000. I believe that every club would love to increase their project funds, so the first step is to submit a request. Details about the matching grant program can be found on our district website. Two big events are rapidly approaching. The Kiwanis International Convention will be in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania from June 25 until June 28. Plans for the International Convention have Henry Winkler "The Fonz" speaking at our opening session. As for our District Dinner, we will be going as a group to the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball game on Friday, June 27. Tickets for the game are available now. We only reserved 40 tickets and they are on a first come first serve basis. I hope that you will make plans to attend. The second big event is our own District Convention. This year, we will be in Dalton, Georgia from August 8 until August 10. We have scheduled the following entertainment for the convention. Randall Franks from the television show, "In the Heat of the Night" will entertain us Friday night and at the Saturday luncheon. Christian music artist, Austin French, will be our Saturday night entertainment. I encourage you to come and be a part of our District Convention.

In the near future, next year's leadership will be begin making plans for the 2025-2026 Kiwanis year. Furthermore, the Georgia District will be offering Club Leadership Education during the months of June, July, and August. Every club member is welcome to attend this training, which normally last from 9-12 on a Saturday. I ask that all incoming officers and board members attend the training. This training is an opportunity to learn new ideas to assist the local Kiwanis club. I know that Governor-Elect Barry Gardner is feverishly working to put together the leadership team for next year. If you are interested in being a part of the leadership team for the Georgia District, please reach out to Barry, Ed Searcy, or myself. We'd be happy to include you.

It has been a great pleasure to serve as your Governor for the Georgia District of Kiwanis. I have thoroughly enjoyed traveling around our great state visiting with Kiwanis Clubs. I am in awe of all of the dedicated members that I have met and the amount of service being provided. All of the clubs have been an inspiration to me. If I haven't had the pleasure to visit your club, I plan to visit before this Kiwanis year concludes. As you have already heard, the motto for this year is "Kiwanis, Where Dreams Come True." I want each of you to know that you are making dreams come true in your communities. Sometimes we forget the impact that Kiwanis Clubs have in their respective areas. Don't sell yourself short. Always remember that whether your club is making a difference in the lives of many or in the lives of one, you are making a positive difference in the life of someone and helping that person's dream come true. Thanks again for all that you have done and will continue to do to make our world a better place.

God Bless,

David

MEET DEBBIE MCCRACKEN, ED.D, 2025 CANDIDATE FOR VICE GOVERNOR

What an honor and privilege it will be to serve with you and for you in the 2025-2026 Kiwanis year as your Vice Governor. I owe a debt of gratitude to all those district and club level leaders who consistently encouraged me to pursue this path. You know who you are! I am beyond excited to embark upon this level of leadership in our well-respected Georgia District. I can't wait to see what we will achieve together to amplify our impact of service in our District, creating expanded possibilities for children and families in our communities and throughout the world.

Who is Debbie?

Debra "Debbie" McCracken was born and raised in San Antonio, Texas. She is product of Catholic Schools having attended parochial school K-8 and an all-girls high school grades 9-12 which was completed in 3 years. She received a Bachelor of Science Education Degree from Texas State University majoring in Elementary and Special Education, Master of Arts Degree in Bilingual-Bicultural Education from University of Texas at San Antonio, an Educational Specialist Degree from University of West Georgia, and Doctorate in Educational Leadership from Argosy Atlanta University.

Debbie retired as the Marietta City Schools Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction. Her 36 years of service in education and administration included teaching all elementary grades K-5 in San Antonio, Texas, Darmstadt, Germany, and the Marietta City School System for 19 years before entering the administrative path for the next 17 years of her career. She joyfully served as the Park Street Elementary School Principal, Director of Curriculum and Instruction, and as an Assistant Superintendent who willingly and gracefully accepted all duties and responsibilities as assigned and then some! Upon Debbie's promotion to school principal, her superintendent strongly encouraged that she becomes a member of a local civic club either Rotary or Kiwanis. She chose wisely and joined Kiwanis! Little did she know at the time that this would be a life-changing experience that she would more fully embrace upon her retirement from district level administration.

Debbie has served either in a leadership role or as a committee member on about every committee in the Marietta Kiwanis Club. Debbie is currently a K-Kids advisor and Builders Club advisor and has served in these roles since 2017.

HONORING EXEMPLARY LEADERSHIP

Virginia Klaer

Kiwanis Club of Duluth-Norcross

The Kiwanis Club of Duluth-Norcross is fortunate to have two leaders who each recently received the Medallion award at the Division 8 Governor's Rally. Shenee Holloway, a past president and board member for many years, is an elected commissioner of Duluth. This year, she started our first signature project in which five schools and local libraries collected business attire for high school seniors to wear for job and career interviews.

Domonique Cooper, also a leader with many talents, is currently the secretary and treasurer of our club. In addition, she started a Terrific Kids program and is also an advisor to a K-Kids and Key Club SLP! She does all this because she is ready and willing to step up whenever there is a need.

We are delighted Governor Simmons recognized these two worthy Kiwanis women as examples of exemplary leadership on February 21, 2025.

Kiwanis Club of Newnan

"For several months now I've been rambling on about how this is 'The Most Important Thing' and how that is 'The Most Important Thing' so how about I boil it down into a list of Eleven Most Important Things?

Understanding that your club may have other issues and that this list is not necessarily in the order that your club needs to address.

- 1.) FUN: If you want folks to show up, they MUST expect to have fun and there's any number of ways to generate a few laughs.
- 2.) CLUB SURVEY: What do the members of your Club really think about what's going on? You really need to poll them on at least an annual basis! Things like meeting date, location, meals, projects, programs, and fundraisers. There may be hidden issues here that are unknown to you that are affecting club participation simply because no one has ever asked what the membership thought!
- 3.) MEALS: As my Baptist friend always tell me, if you want folks to show up to meetings you have to feed them or at least give them a way to get a meal.
- 4.) CONSISTENT LOCATION: Once a convenient location is found KEEP IT! Don't be moving around. Your Club Survey will tell you what you need to know about the popularity of your present location.
- 5.) CONSISTENT DATE & TIME: Don't be moving your club's meeting date or time around either. With a consistent date and time members will have the ability to work your club meeting date and time into their schedules. Again, your Club Survey will tell you what's most convenient for your members.

6.) NEWSLETTER: Without a Newsletter members will not know from one week to the next what's going on; it's that simple. And it doesn't have to be a three-page color newspaper either. A simple, consistent e-mail with important facts will do very nicely. Also include information about members, birthdays, Kiwanis Join Date Anniversaries - all available on your clubs Secretary's Dashboard - in other words show your members that you CARE about them.

7.) PARTICIPATION: Form committees that are responsible for these and other activities. Populate those committees with a few members who have an interest in specific activities. ASK members directly - tell them that you need help and wouldn't they please lend a hand. Keep the tasks small so no one is overwhelmed.

8.) PROJECTS: Projects should help solve community problems or address community issues. If you're stumped on what's really needed in your community go ask the pastors in your churches, speak with the school principals or counselors, with the local police, and you'll find all sorts of issues that need to be addressed. Then poll your membership to see what your members are most interested in addressing.

9.) PARTNERSHIPS: Once your club has decided on a particular issue, or issues, look for other charities you can partner with. You'll most likely find that they have the tools to directly deal with the issues at hand and that IF you'll help them your combined efforts will make for the most effective PROJECTS.

10.) FUNDRAISERS: Now we get down to where the rubber hits the road because this is where your Club is going to earn its credibility. This is what all these Nine other issues are leading up to. Your Club may have a traditional fundraiser you've been using, effectively for years, like a pancake breakfast, or participation in a community celebration where you sell bean soup and corn bread, or participating in a county fair... The list goes on and on. The point here is that you're using that Kiwanis Banner to put your Club's Name on Caring for Your Community!

11.) MEMBERSHIP GROWTH: You really didn't think I was going to NOT include Membership Growth, did you? These projects are where you recruit new members. It works like this: Two, Four, or Six, members get together and come up with a list of folks they think would make good members. They make an appointment with these recruits, and go visit in groups of two, at such a time that's right in front of some sort of community project which these new recruits are invited to participate in. This way these new recruits can see for themselves what your Kiwanis club is all about. They can get involved from the start. Well, that all for now... I just want you to ask yourself, what are you doing to make your Club Stronger and More Effective in Your Community?"

CELEBRATED OVER 60 YEARS OF SERVICE

IDEAS FOR POTENTIAL PARTNERS

Is your club looking for partners? Various groups and individuals can support your club in ways both big and small. Here's how different types of partners can team up with SLP clubs to contribute to the community:

- Businesses can donate supplies for club activities. They're good resources for art supplies for posters or toiletries to put in hygiene bags for homeless shelters. They also can provide a location where customers purchase and donate items – such as food from a grocery store, for a food drive. Restaurants can partner with your club on a fundraiser. During a “dine and donate night,” a percentage of revenue could go to your club for its activities, or to an organization such as a children’s hospital or animal shelter.
- Government agencies can offer cost-free locations for service or events. For example, members can mulch hiking trails or pick up litter in public parks. Or the club can schedule time to help patrons at libraries and historical sites. A benefit concert could be held at a park pavilion or a walk-a-thon on city streets. Work with agency staff or public officials to get approval for your club’s activities. Elected or appointed officials also can be great speakers at your school – and good advocates for your club with community leaders.
- Nonprofit organizations often need donations of money or useful items. They also offer sites for hands-on service, such as caring for animals at a local shelter or bell ringing for donations during holiday seasons.
- Individuals are often the first to support clubs! Among your family, friends, neighbors and other community members, you'll find many people willing to help at events, share their expertise and donate resources (such as money and items). Just ask!

Of course, these organizations and individuals benefit from the opportunities that your club gives them. Whether it's part of their mission or a way to be seen giving back to the community, they're getting a chance to support kids and do their part in improving their community. So don't be shy. Pursue partnerships that benefit everyone!

LOCAL STUDENTS HONORED WITH MEL HAYDEN LEADERSHIP

THE NEWNAN TIMES-HERALD
By: Clay Neely

Nineteen students from the 3rd Division of the Georgia District of Kiwanis were awarded Mel Hayden Leadership Medallions during a ceremony at the Nixon Centre for Performing and Visual Arts on March 9.

The recipients are members of Kiwanis-sponsored Student Leadership Programs at their schools. These include K-Kids for elementary students, Builders Club for middle schoolers, and Key Club for high school students.

Each student was nominated by their club advisor for exemplifying the service leadership principles the award represents. The medallion, established in 2016 in memory of the late Dr. Mel Hayden, a White Oak

Golden Kiwanis Club member, recognizes students who display outstanding leadership in three key areas:

Heart to Serve – demonstrating compassion and recognizing needs in their school and community

Call to Lead – actively volunteering, taking leadership roles, and helping solve problems

Courage to Engage – building interpersonal relationships and communicating effectively

Georgia Kiwanis District Governor David Simmons, Lt. Governor Karen Goodell-Webb, and Coweta Kiwanian Lucy Hayden presented the awards.

KIDS NEED KIWANIS TO LEARN COMPASSION

KEY CLUB DISTRICT BOARD TRAINING

Last month, the new 2025-2026 Georgia District Board of Trustees for the Georgia District of Key Club International came together for a weekend full of training, team bonding, and s'mores! Congratulations to the new leadership!

COSPONSOR A BUILDERS CLUB

When a Kiwanis club cosponsors a Builders Club, it joins forces with another Kiwanis family club – usually Key Club or Circle K International – to provide meaningful support and guidance. Together, these clubs collaborate to meet the sponsorship requirements outlined in the Builders Club Petition for Charter, ensuring a strong foundation for young leaders to grow and thrive. Here's what cosponsoring clubs do and how they can work together:

- Assign volunteers. The Kiwanis club appoints a member to serve as the Builders Club Kiwanis advisor. The cosponsoring Key Club or CKI club also appoints a contact person. The Kiwanis advisor (and other volunteers 18 years or older) must complete Youth Protection Training before working with the Builders Club.
- Fund the Builders Club. After paying the initial chartering fee, the Kiwanis club allocates money in its budget to support the Builders Club, including paying its annual renewal fee. Some cosponsoring Key Clubs and CKI clubs pay a portion of the charter and annual fees. Throughout the year, cosponsoring clubs can help with activity and service project expenses, as well as snacks for meetings.
- Create a plan and calendar. It's time to get to work and have fun! The Kiwanis advisor and Key Club/CKI representative should meet with the Builders Club faculty advisor at the beginning of the year. Discuss how and when they will assist with service, training, ceremonies or other projects, such as this year's Global Service Project, Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF, Builders Club Week, and Builders Club Contests & Awards. Use the Builders Club Advisor Toolkit to learn how to offer support.

- Invite Builders Club members and parents to service events. Include the Builders Club members in a cosponsoring club's service projects, when age-appropriate, or start a new one with a Kiwanis International partner. For example, build a Little Free Library or grow a community garden with help from Kids-Gardening.

Kiwanis cosponsors collaborate to offer the best possible experiences for the Builders Clubs they sponsor. And because more Kiwanis volunteers are involved, Builders Club meetings and service activities receive additional support.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Join us in congratulating these clubs that are celebrating birthdays! We are honored to have them as a part of our Georgia Kiwanis family. Each club has been active in the community and is truly making a difference. Thank you for all you do!

KIWANIS CHILDREN'S FUND

John Holley

Georgia District Kiwanis
Children's Fund Chair
Kiwanis Club of Metro Atlanta

The Kiwanis Children's Fund, your fundraising organization for Kiwanis International, continues to reach out to you and your clubs to raise $25,000,000.00 by the end of the 2027-2028 Kiwanis year. This is the goal of the Possibility Project. With these funds, the Children's Fund can serve 10 million children around the world.

What a joy it would be to no longer see children going hungry, students struggling to read, and potential leaders lacking mentors. I am pleased to report that Kiwanis clubs are addressing urgent needs like these. With your contributions, the Kiwanis Children's Fund is addressing these issues with grants that make service projects possible. We have an opportunity to help make a difference in the lives of the 10 million kids I mentioned. Also, it takes just $2.25 to impact the life of a child.

Let's not forget the impact we had on the world with our previous two global projects (IDD and the Eliminate Project). The world knows who we are, and I am sure you want to be on "Team Kiwanis" that continues to be that "shining light on the hill." Again, I am asking that your club considers becoming an Impact Club and give a gift that represents an average of at least $500.00 per member over five years. By reaching your goal, your club will have a major role in the Kiwanis family's effort to make a difference in the lives of children around the world.

As you embark upon this mission, it is suggested that you use a combination of fundraising methods: These may include:

- Gifts generated from community fundraising event and activities.
- Gifts from individual club members.
- Gift from the club treasury.
- Gift from the club foundation.
- Matching gifts from your club or other organizations.
- Gifts from local businesses or organizations in your community.

Just remember, your club can count the contributions made on behalf of your club to the Kiwanis Children's Fund, since October 2022.

Since my last article, here is the fundraising update. The Possibility Project total gifts and pledges are at $7,546,439.94. The Georgia District's total gifts and pledges are at $253,558.51. Thanks for your support!

As always, as your District Chair, I am your resource for all matters relating to the Kiwanis Children's Fund. USE ME! My contact information is jholley40@comcast.net or by phone at (678) 481-7572.

2022-23 Governor of GA District
Kiwanis Club of Winder,

Georgia Online

Something that is not widely publicized is our valuable youth protection training provided by Praesidium Academy at no charge to our clubs and members. This training is required for many of us (Service Leadership Program Advisors, chaperones) and is completed online. This is not a substitute for the Youth Protection Guidelines training required for all clubs every year. There are seven separate courses that are self-paced to take. SLP Advisors must take six courses and chaperones must complete three. Like the Kiwanis Background Check, These courses must be renewed every two years. To know which courses you need, see the chart included below in this article.

Praesidium abuse prevention courses

Kiwanis International partners with global abuse prevention educator Praesidium Inc. to conduct youth protection and child abuse prevention courses. Praesidium Inc. is a multi-disciplinary organization that has spent more than 25 years researching child sexual abuse and developing prevention training, programs, and services.

SLP advisors, district administrators, risk managers and youth protection managers can access training through the Praesidium Academy learning management system. The courses cover topics ranging from sexual abuse prevention to a volunteer's duty to report abuse. These volunteer positions require you to complete six to seven courses, depending on the role. Courses will be pre-loaded into a user learning path for immediate access.

Chaperones for SLP events are required to complete three courses. If a chaperone is not a Kiwanis member, they will need to have a profile created to complete the training. Email youthprotection@kiwanis.org to have the profile created. Courses will be pre-loaded into a user learning path for immediate access.

Once courses are completed, the member can print his or her certificate by clicking on the "certificate tab" on the learner dashboard. It does not need to be submitted to Kiwanis International. We automatically receive results. Training must be completed every two years.

How do I receive my login information from Praesidium Academy? Depending on your role as SLP District Administrator, advisor, member or non-member chaperone, download instructions here.

If you already have a learner account, follow these steps to reset your password and gain access to your account:

1. Go to praesidiumacademy.com/learn.
2. Click on Forgot your password? (to create a new or reset password)
3. Enter the email address Kiwanis International has on file.
4. Click the blue Reset Password button.
5. Check your email.
6. Click the link inside of your email to set a new password for your Academy account.
7. There will be a three-question survey to fill out.
8. Access courses in the learning path.

Email youthprotection@kiwanis.org with questions or technical problems.

I appreciate everyone who needs the Kiwanis Background Check staying current. As you know, the $35 Kiwanis Background Check is good for two years. Only 8 background checks need to be renewed in May and June. If you look at your page on the Kiwanis Connect site, you can see when your approved background check is set to expire.

EMERGING LEADERS - 2025

Sharon Barksdale

Emerging Leaders Chair
Kiwanis Club of Conyers & Social Circle

I know that we are fast approaching the end of another school year. I hope that most of you are familiar with the Emerging Leaders Program and the upcoming Retreat in September at the FFA Camp in Covington.

Now is the time to begin looking at students who you believe would benefit from the Retreat. We will have a dynamic speaker, Dave Kelly, again this year. His program and presentation are incredible. He can reach the students and engage them in the presentation and the activities. The feedback from last year’s Retreat was very positive. The students become creative and share their thoughts and ideas with the other students.

The information about the Emerging Leaders Program and the Retreat are on the Georgia Kiwanis website: georgiakiwanis.com. When you get to the website, you click on Events and scroll down to Emerging Leaders. This page has all the information you will need about the program, registration, cost and contact information. You can also download the event flyer to use when approaching anyone about the program and Retreat.

I encourage each of you to talk to your clubs, friends, family, teachers, coaches, counselors and others who have eligible students who could benefit from attending this Retreat. September is just around the corner.

Another consideration in hosting this Retreat will be adult volunteers. It will be necessary for us to have one (1) adult for every ten (10) students. The gender breakdown will depend on the number of male and female students who register. Please consider becoming an adult volunteer - you won't regret it.

In advance, I sincerely thank every one of you for your consideration, assistance and participation in this endeavor. My contact information is on the webpage. Please feel free to contact me with any questions at the email address provided. Thank you all for your help and all that you do for Kiwanis and the children in your communities. Always remember, KIDS NEED KIWANIS.

do your best", she told me. So we began. I found out this child likes animals, so we selected 'beginner' books containing animal characters, and the teacher was right, he literally could not pronounce simple words. But we kept at it, and when I showed him how to divide a word into parts (diagram), we had a small break-through. It often took us 30 minutes to read two or three pages, but he did it...HE did it. His smile said it all. I think he knew improvement was coming, though slowly. By the end of the school year, he could read at a second grade level pretty easily, and sometimes even a third grade book was not beyond his ability.

As is the custom, every school will host an awards ceremony at the end of the school year. Students are recognized for a myriad of accomplishments, teachers are praised, sometimes entire classes are recognized, and on and on it goes. I don't care for these events. There are so many kids that are left out, and I wonder how such an event impacts them. But I always attend and smile and applaud and shake a few hands. Oh Well. As I feared, my reader was not recognized and I was disappointed for him. But as I left the building and pushed my way through the crowd of parents and students, I heard his voice literally screaming my name..."Mr. Mike, Mr. Mike, wait." I turned and saw him pulling a woman toward me through the crowd, a big smile on his face. "Mr. Mike, this is my mama. Mama, this is my friend Mr. Mike. He taught me to read." She stopped right in front of me and slowly said, "So you're Mr. Mike. I've heard about you. Thank you for helping my son. I can't tell you how much it means to us both." We hugged and she cried...think I did too...and then it dawned on me. Here it was... the reward and the acknowledgement that this child had earned. Mama beamed. The young man smiled. I was proud. And the student...he could READ.

I guess it's true, people may forget what you said, they may forget what you did, but they won't forget how you made them feel.

THE FOOD DRIVE

One year, our Kiwanis Club decided to establish a K-Kids Club in one of the local elementary schools. K-Kids Clubs are designed to run exactly like our club for adults. Officers must be elected and trained, dues are collected, by-laws are established, meetings are run by the students and overseen by their president. Community projects are selected, voted on, and completed. I volunteered to oversee K-Kids, and found this to be a real challenge, but very rewarding. With help from other members and a school volunteer, I jumped in. Finding students to be officers, or project coordinators was very hard, but I was determined to find a job for every child, and I did, except for this one little girl. She was painfully shy and withdrawn, did not like to participate in the meetings, so one day I asked her why she joined K-Kids. "Mama made me", she replied. OK then.

Our first community project was a canned food drive for MUST Ministries. The kids printed flyers and we sent them home with every student in the school. The teachers got behind the project as well, and soon food began to trickle in. I arranged to get several large collection barrels from MUST and we filled a couple of them with the canned goods. But the needs of MUST are great and we needed more. I asked the K-Kids if they would like to visit MUST and see exactly how the food was being used, and of course they loved any field trip. We spent several hours at MUST and they marveled at how many needy people came in asking for food, and that was all it took to ignite the kids. Even my shy little girl seemed to take notice of the good work done by MUST. The enthusiasm among the K-Kids was obvious as they began to understand the meaning of 'community service'. The next week, as we began our regular meeting, my shy girl pulled at my sleeve. "What's up?" I said. "You need to come with me", she said. "I can't right now, we need to get the meeting started." I answered. "Mama said you need to come outside...right now." There was urgency in her voice, so I went. And there at the front entrance of the school sat an old station wagon, loaded from top to bottom and front to back, with canned goods and dry goods... boxes of rice, cereal, toiletries, and more canned goods than I could count. Mama was behind the wheel and she was smiling broadly. Apparently, my shy little girl had told her family about all the poor people that needed help. "We need to do something", she told her mama. And she and her mama printed fliers and placed one in every mailbox in every neighborhood on their side of town. They told their neighbors that they would be back on Saturday to pick up whatever donations of food the neighbors could spare. And boy did they come through. This child, with help from her mama, and encouragement from our K-Kids Club collected hundreds of food items, and that's when I knew she and the other students knew what it means to help people less fortunate. The rest of the school year, these students thought of more community projects than we could possibly complete. They raised money for cancer research, worked to collect recyclables, cleaned up the school grounds, painted park benches, visited nursing homes, and on and on it went. And who do you think volunteered to head up any project we adopted? Her mama was so proud.

SHAPES

"Ready for a challenge?", the teacher asked. "I have a new Hispanic student, and he speaks NO English. His family is very poor and they are depending on us to educate him. We enrolled him in a class with other Hispanics, but he is really struggling and I think he needs some special attention...you know, one-on-one. Up for it?" "But I don't speak Spanish" I said. "Exactly what we're looking for", she replied, with a smile.

The school provided lesson plans and supplies, and every Thursday for 60-90 minutes, I met this 9 year old boy in the library and we went to work. We both knew what the goal was, but this was a lot harder than either of us anticipated, and pronouncing a word and understanding the meaning are two different things. One especially difficult lesson was ...SHAPES. Circle, Square, Rectangle, Triangle, and even Moon, Stars and the like. I'd say the word (Square) he'd say the word (Square), I'd show him a square, then ask him to find the square shape on a piece of paper containing lots of different shapes. He simply did not grasp it. We'd start over. This went on for weeks with minimal progress, and his frustration was apparent. Finally, I asked our chaperone, the librarian if I could take him out into the hall; She knew me well and said "Absolutely". We walked the empty halls in silence for a while. I know he wondered what I was doing. Then I stopped and pointed to the floor tiles... "SQUARE" I said loudly. He just looked puzzled. I pointed to a light switch cover, "RECTANGLE", I said. We kept moving as I outlined each shape with my finger. I found a large framed painting on the wall and said again, "RECTANGLE", as I outlined the shape again. I found a round light fixture and said "CIRCLE", moving my finger in a circle around the fixture. And suddenly it happened. His eyes opened wide. He smiled broadly. A switch went on inside his head, and he began running up and down the hall pointing at various shapes and shouting the name of each one; CIRCLE, SQUARE, RECTANGLE. This went on for several minutes. Hearing the commotion, the Media Center Specialist (librarian) stepped into the hall and with a big smile, proclaimed loudly, "I think he has it." I was thrilled. The child was thrilled. We hurried back to the classroom to report to the teacher. She was sitting at her desk working on the computer. "Any progress today?" "We've had a breakthrough", I said turning to the beaming child. "OK, what's the shape of this computer screen?" The boy smiled broadly. His chest was out, as he spoke. "Mr. Mike, that's a circle". My heart sank. The teacher sat there speechless, as the boy instantly saw the disappointment on my face and he corrected himself, "...No. No...a square, a square, Mr. Mike, a square." The teacher laughed out loud, as she admonished me. "That will teach you not to be prideful." She hugged the boy and praised him over and over, and so did I. He went on to learn many new words, and by the end of the school year he was reading at grade level and participating in every class event. And me; I learned about ego and pride. All-in-all, it was a good day.

WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN?

She was a beautiful nine year old child; blond hair, blue eyes. Cute as could be. But she had the blank stare of a child with autism; withdrawn, and shy, rarely spoke, did not participate in the classroom activities, always looking down, and of course, had no friends. The teacher shared the anticipated story. She was from a very poor family and they could not afford the special care and instruction this child needed. The law says the county must take her and do the best it could to educate her. There are special education classes for kids like her, but she needed additional help NOW, to prepare her for the tough road ahead. Once again, I was asked to work with a special child, but this time, we would stay in the class room, and she would transition to special education classes, perhaps next year. So it began.

I came twice each week, sat next to her, encouraged her in every classroom activity, sat with her at lunch, talked and talked. Eventually she answered back. Short answers at first, and rarely any eye contact. Sometimes she would just say the word NO, loudly..."let me do it". And I did. After a while, she would meet me at the classroom door, take my hand and lead me to her place. "Sit" she would say. And we would color or draw, or cut our shapes and patterns, as the teacher directed, and I would talk and ask questions..."Can I use your red crayon?" sometimes YES, sometimes NO. She and I had an unusual bond and I liked her a lot. I knew she looked forward to our visits, but she was often distant and difficult. The teacher assured me that she was making progress, so I kept at it.

One week, I had to skip my usual visits to the school. I think I had a doctor appointment followed by a trip out of town. When I returned, the teacher met me at the door. "Thank goodness you're back. She hasn't spoken a word since you left....not one word. She won't participate in any classroom activities and most days she just picks at her lunch." I spotted her sitting alone at a table. Other kids were busy working on assignments. She was doing nothing. I walked over to her table, pulled up a chair next to her and sat down. Before I could say a word, she lifted her head and loudly asked, "Where Have You Been?" I tried to explain. I told her I knew the teacher had told her I would be out for a while, but I'm back now...OK?? And eventually it was. We worked on a couple of projects together and as the day ended, she asked, "You coming back?"

I surmised this child probably never knew friendship, and she worried that I was rejecting her as so many others had. Her family did not know what to do with her, and they did not know what to do FOR her. I'm sure it was a lonely existence for them all. Later on, I found out that the school would be providing parental skills instruction for the parents as well, and that's a good thing. At the end of the school year, we said out farewells. I told her how happy I was that we got to spend so much time together. "Maybe next year you'll be back in this school, and we can see each other again. Would you like that?" No response...she just gave me a long hug around my legs, and ran off. I guess that was my answer, and I was left to wonder if I had made a difference in her life.

Maybe she will remember that she once made a friend in third grade, at Green Acres School, in Smyrna, Georgia.

YOU CAN'T MAKE ME GO

As I answered the phone, I recognized the familiar voice of the principal at one of the elementary schools where Kiwanis volunteered. "Mike, I know you're scheduled to come here tomorrow, but I wondered if you could come now? I have a problem with a student that you know well, and I think you could help. And bring another Kiwanis member. We may need the help." I called my Kiwanis friend, Robbie Robinson, a senior member of the club, father, grandfather and my mentor. I knew Robbie would know how to handle any situation. I'd seen him work magic before.

It was the dead of winter and the weather was bitter; cold, wet, and windy. As we entered the principal's office. I spotted a young black child sitting in a chair in the corner, eyes down. I recognized him as one of our reading students. "What's up?" "Well, this young man has refused to get on the school bus. Says he wants to spend the night in the school." the principal began. He then gave me that look that silently said...YOU talk to him. "We can leave you two alone". Robbie and the principal left the room.

"OK, tell me about it." I said, and he slowly began. "It's cold inside our apartment, and there's no food and the lights don't work, and you can't make me go back there. No Way! and Mama lost her job, and I don't even know where she is." "Don't you have an older brother?" I asked. "Yeah, he goes to a different school, and he don't want to be there either. He'll probably be home soon." "OK, here's the deal. You CAN'T sleep here. But we'll go with you to your home. We'll find your brother, and then decide what to do. OK???" We WILL work it out." He paused a long time, but finally agreed.

I went into the hall way and found my friends leaning up against the wall. I told them, my wife works for DFACS (Dept. of Family and Children's Services) and if we can't figure this out... and quickly, we had to contact them. The principal knew I was right. We can take him home, assess the situation, find his brother, and hopefully his mother, and then make a decision. Off we went.

The run-down apartment complex was depressing. Abandoned cars sat on blocks and trash was strewn about amid some worn out and rusted playground equipment. The evidence of poverty was everywhere. The boy provided a door key on a string from beneath his shirt, and handed it to me. The principal wisely said, "I'll go inside alone. I don't think you guys should be in there without the mom's permission." We agreed. As we waited, Robbie told me that he thought he knew how to get the electricity turned back on. "I've done this before. I have an emergency phone number, and we can buy some groceries. I know the manager at a local store and he'll probably help out." Now we have a plan.

The principal emerged from the apartment, and confirmed the boy's story; no heat, no electricity, no food, it's just dark and cold inside. About that time, the brother arrived. He's 3-4 years older than his little brother. He says that he expects his mom home soon, and NO, he does not know what they will do. So, Robbie and I asked the principal to stay here with the boys, while we get to work. Robbie headed home to make his phone call about the electricity. I head to the grocery store and Robbie will join me there as soon as he can. Everything works like clockwork. Georgia Power will send someone to reconnect the power... and they did. The store manager donated many food items, and Robbie and I bought even more. I think we had about three carts full. The sun was setting as we arrived back at the apartment, and Mom just arrived in a taxi. Yes, she had lost her job. And she had spent her last paycheck on groceries and that taxi ride. And NO she did not know what tomorrow would bring. But one thing was completely clear. She was not happy to see us, did not want our charity, did not like that we had been in her apartment, and wanted us OUT immediately. She was embarrassed and she was proud. And she shouted she had never asked for help, and wasn't doing so now. "Just GO", she kept saying, "GO NOW". I told her...the power's back on, these groceries are yours, no strings attached. We can come back later. NO...NO she said. Robbie and I sat the groceries next to the front door. I noticed the lights were on and the heat was running. But she was absolutely livid and I saw that we were embarrassing her even more by staying. We left.

A day or two later I called the school. The child had not come to school, and in fact never came back. Robbie and I went by the apartment about a week later, and a neighbor told us that the woman and her two kids had moved out, and no one seemed to know where. "I think they were from somewhere up north. Maybe they went back there." The lady said.

How sad and how eye-opening was this experience. Our town is prosperous, has food banks, MUST Ministries, churches, and community organizations that are all willing to help people in need. But pride would not allow this lady to ask for help. I learned that there are people in need hidden everywhere, and I grieved over the outcome of this story. But, we did what we could do, as did this honorable principal. He told me he sees people like this every day and he always tries to help. Bless his heart.

Maybe one day this single mom will think back on this event and realize that our intentions were good. And yes, I think I'd do it again.

KENTUCKY COLONEL

Josh Chancey, left, a local financial advisor with the Edward Jones company, was named a "Kentucky Colonel" by U.S. Army Colonel Tom Damron (ret.) recently. Damron cited Chancey's philanthropic work in Gilmer County, and noted the Kentucky Colonel status is recognized in all 50 states and 75 countries. The ambassador program has assisted the Samaritan's Purse relief organization after hurricanes and their aftermath in western North Carolina and the Gulf Coast of Florida, and regionally will sponsor an upcoming service day at Young Harris at a food bank. Chancey said he was "honored and humbled" by the unexpected designation. (Photo by Katherine Hyatt/Kiwanis Club)
