FROM THE EDITOR

As we publish this final issue of the Division 23 Central bulletin for this administrative year, I am deeply proud of the journey we have taken together. What began as a commitment to "Empower, Inspire, Transform... United in Service" has become a living testimony of what true service, unity and leadership can achieve.

Across our clubs, we have seen dedication turn into impact, ideas turn into action and service turn into transformation. You have shown resilience, creativity, and heart - uplifting communities, supporting children and families and representing our division with excellence at every level.

This bulletin has captured your stories, but your real legacy lives in the lives you've touched and the hope you've sparked. Though this chapter closes, the spirit we've built together will continue to inspire the next.

Division 23 Central - it has been an honour to serve alongside you.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR'S
*MessageSharon Usim

Lieutenant Governor 2024/25
Eastern Canada and the Caribbean District

Greetings Transformers,

What a year of service, growth and transformation- together we have shown what acts of kindness, small and large, multiplied across our division can accomplish. I am deeply proud of every club, each member and partner who answered the call to serve our children, support families and strengthen our communities. Our clubs across the division answered the charge to focus on projects that had or will have a transformative effect on the beneficiaries. I thank the club leaders for their steadfast commitment, members for their tireless hands and generous hearts, and to our community partners for believing in the Kiwanis mission.

This year taught us the power of teamwork, the importance of listening to community needs and the value of consistent, compassionate action. Every act of service built momentum, a meal shared, a mentorship started, a child's health improved, or life saved, a family in need supported by a scholarship for their child, these are the seeds of transformation planted.

As we end this year, let us carry forward these strengths, nurture and water the seeds, deepen partnerships, mentor incoming leaders and keep our children at the centre of our plans. Let the momentum we created become the foundation for even bolder impact next year. I wish LGD Michael and the incoming team every success.

Kiwanians, it is time to celebrate our achievements, be encouraged that our work has tremendous value, continue to support each other, share your stories and bring new members into our K family. We did it, we empowered, we inspired and we transformed. Most importantly Division 23 Central remains United in Service.

A Year of Service

In the heart of Jamaica, strong and true,
Division 23 Central rose, with skies of blue.
A Kiwanis year, from dawn to dusk,
Built on service, on faith, on trust.

We clothed the children, we fed the poor,
We opened wide compassion's door.
Schools were lifted, dreams made bright,
Through books, through care, through guiding light.

From health fairs shared to shelters strong,
We proved together we all belong.
Each project born of love and grace,
Brought hope and smiles to every face.

Leaders stood with vision clear,
Uniting clubs throughout the year.
Hand in hand, with hearts aligned,
We shaped a legacy, one of a kind.

For in each act, both big and small,
We echoed Kiwanis' noble call:
To serve the children, near and far,
To light their way, their guiding star.

So here's to a journey, bold and bright,
2024-2025, a beacon of light.
Division 23 Central, steadfast, true,
The world is better because of you.

SERVICE CLUBS JOIN FORCES

to Celebrate Community Week 2025

Published by The Gleaner:
Wednesday | September 17, 2025

FOUR OF the world's largest service organisations – Kiwanis International, Lions Clubs International, Optimist International, and Rotary International – have united for Celebrate Community Week, a global movement that highlights the power of collaboration in service, from September 14-20.

Each year, millions of members across the globe take part in joint projects, setting aside individual banners to work together on issues that matter most. The initiative is a reminder that communities grow stronger when groups choose cooperation over competition.

This year's focus is on the environment, food insecurity, and hunger. In Jamaica, the clubs will come together for two projects. On Saturday, September 20, there will be the Food for Growth Initiative for Kids, which provides breakfast items to children in the Cassava Piece area. On Sunday, September 21, the clubs will participate in International Coastal Clean-up Day 2025 in collaboration with the National Environment and Planning Agency, reinforcing the link between nurturing young people and protecting the natural spaces they will inherit.

Locally, this effort brings together the Kiwanis Club of Constant Spring, the Lions Club of New Kingston, the Rotary Club of Kingston, the Royal Optimist Club Kingston, the Optimist Club of Barbican Pines, and the Optimist Club of Harbour View.

For the children who start their day with a proper meal, or the families who enjoy a cleaner shoreline, the benefits are immediate. But the broader message is just as important: when service clubs unite, their combined impact transforms lives. ■

Celebrate Community Week is proof that while each club has its own traditions, their mission is shared to serve, to uplift, and to build a better tomorrow one child, one community at a time. ■

Three students from Melrose Primary and Junior High have been awarded scholarships by the Kiwanis Club of Barbican to offset textbook and other school-related expenses for the 2025-2026 academic year.

The scholars – Nia-Lea Williamson, Mahalia Powell and DeAndre Spence – were presented with their awards on August 19 during a ceremony at the Jamaica Employers' Federation headquarters on Ruthven Road in St Andrew.

The Norris Crooks Scholarship programme, named in honour of the club's late distinguished president, provides financial aid of up $30,000 each to PEP students. ■

On Saturday, September 20, 2025, the Food for Growth Initiative for Kids successfully distributed packages to children in the Cassava Piece area at the Constant Spring Primary and Infant School. We distributed 130 packages to children with their parents. Packaged items included food such as cereal, canned food, powdered milk, etc. Hygiene items included toothpaste, bar soap, and deodorant.

On Sunday, September 21, 2025, the clubs participated in the International Coastal Clean-up Day in collaboration with the National Environmental Planning Agency (NEPA) at Hellshire Beach

Celebrate Community Week serves as inspiration and proof that while each club has its own traditions, our mission remains the same, to serve, uplift, and build a better future for all. ■

COMMENDING KIWANIANS, LIONS, OPTIMISTS AND ROTARIANS ON A GREAT IDEA

September 16, 2025

On Sunday, Jamaicans held hands across the globe, symbolically, under the aegis of four of the world's largest service organisations representing millions of charity-minded members, to kick off activities marking Celebrate Community Week 2025, an interesting concept.

The service clubs — all familiar to Jamaicans — are Kiwanis International; Lions Clubs International; Optimist International; and Rotary International, without whom countless people in the poorest countries, including Jamaica, would have lived and died in their perpetual squalor.

Celebrate Community Week, we are told, is a global movement that "highlights the power of collaboration in service".

As Ms Sheron Gilzean, Kiwanis Club of Constant Spring president, said in a story in yesterday's Jamaica Observer: "Each year, millions of members across the globe take part in joint projects, setting aside individual banners to work together on issues that matter most. The initiative is a reminder that communities grow stronger when groups choose cooperation over competition." ▶

Ms Gilzean could not have said it better. There are many organisations operating here, in which a cursory glance at their profile, constitution, programme agenda, and modus operandi would reveal a paucity of differences that would justify why they would not be working together.

For decades these service clubs have been cherished by grateful Jamaicans who benefited from their charity work, but seeing them as individual organisations vying for space. This global coming together is heralding a far greater and more effective future for them and the people they serve.

This year's Celebrate Community Week is focusing on the environment, food insecurity, and hunger. In Jamaica, the clubs will come together for two main projects: On September 20 there will be the Food for Growth Initiative for Kids, which provides breakfast items to children in the inner-city community of Cassava Piece, St Andrew; followed the next day by their participation in International Coastal Clean-up Day 2025.

The Clean-up Day is in collaboration with the National Environmental & Planning Agency (NEPA), “thus reinforcing the link between nurturing young people and protecting the natural spaces they will inherit”, according to Ms Gilzean.

Locally, this effort brings together the Kiwanis Club of Constant Spring, the Lions Club of New Kingston, the Rotary Club of Kingston, the Royal Optimist Club of Kingston, the Optimist Club of Barbican Pines, and the Optimist Club of Harbour View. She explained that for the children who start their day with a proper meal, or the families who enjoy a cleaner shoreline, the benefits are immediate. But the broader message is just as important: When service clubs unite, their combined impact transforms lives.

“Celebrate Community Week is proof that while each club has its own traditions, our mission is shared to serve, to uplift, and to build a better tomorrow, one child, one community at a time,” Ms Gilzean emphasised.

This is a message that we, as a newspaper, would like to commend to other service organisations who would achieve way more if they pooled resources and ideas. ■

Congratulations to Kiwanis International, Lions Clubs International, Optimist International, and Rotary International for lighting the way. ■
